Biography:

Chris graduated from Mount Royal College in 2005 with a degree in Environmental Science, Bachelor of Applied Industrial Ecology. Since graduating Chris has worked for oil and gas producers in a variety of positions starting from Environmental Technologist to most recently as an Environmental Lead. Chris's roles within oil and gas companies has helped him gain a wide variety of exposure to many of the environmental and regulatory issues surrounding oil and gas operations.

Experience and Competencies:

With over five years of industry experience working in the Environmental field for EH&S departments Chris has dealt with project management surrounding: environmental protection planning and permitting, reclamation, remediation, environmental management systems, water management, and environmental sustainability along with the financial tracking and reporting for these projects.

Projects Worked On:

Most recently:

- Environmental guidance and support for new undertakings in the Horn River Basin in remote B.C.
- Complaint investigation and resolution between landowners, regulators and producers surrounding environmental issues.
- Environmental reviews on possible acquisition activities.
- Directive 35 water well testing program for Alberta CBM drilling.
